BANKING COM. AP- PROVES NEW BANK

ARTICLES OF ASSN. READY FOR SUBMISSION

Affairs for the establishment of a new bank are rapidly shaping themselves so that it looks as though a month or six weeks it should be about ready to open for business.

The application for permission to organize has been approved by the State Banking Commission. Representatives of that commission have been looking into the set-up of the proposed new bank and find everything satisfactory. The commission reports that it is receiving many applications for permission to establish new banks but finds that many have to be denied for one reason or another. This isn't always due to the lack of finances but rather because of faulty organization. Thus it may be seen that the incorporators of the proposed Grayling State Savings bank have presented a set-up to the commission that is sound and deserving of approval.

John Bruun, who will assume the responsible position of cashier and manager, says that their articles of association are now ready and will be submitted to the State Commission for further approval.

To use a slang expression, "It won't be long now" before Grayling will again be enjoying the privilege of banking facilities. We have learned what it means to be without a bank and, especially the business interests, have felt its inconvenience and know something of how difficult it is to do business without a bank. Few people realize what the establishment of this bank in Grayling means to those having deposits in the now defunct Bank of Grayling. There is little doubt but that the assignees of the Grayling bank will be able to pay out a greater percentage of the depositors' money than they could have been forced to make quick settlements and sales of such assets as are available. Forcing sales means lower returns in money. And too the collections of obligations owing the bank would very probably be pressed to the limit and necessarily causing considerable hardship and the sacrifice of collateral on file for securities. Business would be due for a paralysis and everywhere there would be, we believe, a lot of hardship and financial worries.

While a new bank could, probably not avoid this condition entirely, still it would, we feel, certainly, alleviate a lot of such trouble. Eabern Hanson and members of the Hanson families, who assume about half of the financial obligation of the new bank, and the other stockholders are deserving of the thanks and gratitude of the public, and particularly those who have deposits in the former bank, for making it possible for Grayling to have a good, sound banking institution here at home. It means a saving in our property values too that offers added security, and the preservation of property values that otherwise would be sure to feel tremendous depreciation.

It sometimes seems that this matter has been slow in developing, but it takes considerable time, these days, to launch banking institutions, especially when the State Banking Commission is so insistent upon permitting only sound, favorable conditions to pass its approval. The Grayling State Savings bank is now a certainty. And when it opens its doors every property owner and every business should not only feel it a duty to aid in its support, but it should be a genuine pleasure as well.

In getting around the state and talking with men from other cities we find that Grayling is much better off than most of them. This is a time when everyone should pull together, and, if we do that, there need be little fear but that Grayling will continue to prosper and grow. If there are any pet jealousies among us, they should be forgotten—for the good of Grayling.

WORK ON M-76 TO START SOON

Mr. Burridge, district highway engineer, was in Grayling Tuesday, and while here said that work on trunk line highway M-76 would begin within a couple of weeks. This, with the work that is being planned by the county road commission, should relieve the unemployment situation in Crawford county to a large extent.

Also workmen are busy engaged in the construction of a new bridge across the AuSable river on US-27. Under these conditions there should be an opportunity for every able bodied man to secure at least enough employment to assure them against want and privation.

It is understood that local people should be given employment in every possible way, and that labor is not to be brought into this county to the detriment of local laborers. He further states that much of this work is contracted out to construction companies and that it is up to every man employed to give a full measure of service in return for a job. These jobs are taken at low costs and in order for contractors to make a profit on the work they must have faithful service in return from the workmen. We know there are many families where the breadwinners are ready and anxious to earn an honest living and that the commencement of these projects are being anxiously awaited.

STEPHAN-GRANGER NUPTIALS

Before an altar banked with palms, ferns, baskets of chrysanthemums and calla lilies and potted begonias, Miss Ruby Louise Stephan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Stephan and Mr. George Augustus Granger, son of Mr. Celia Granger spoke their marriage vows at Michelson Memorial M. E. church Saturday afternoon.

At four o'clock to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mr. C. M. Fuller, the bride and groom took their places. The bride was charming in a gown of dark blue transparent velvet, molded on princess lines and she carried an arm bouquet of Briarcliff roses. She was given in marriage by her father, and her only attendant was Miss Ruth Johnson of Greenville, who wore brown silk crepe and carried Tallian roses. Mr. Wallace Peterson of Greenville a classmate of the groom at Michigan State College, assisted as bestman. The impressive ring service was read by Rev. Allen Scheur of Gaylord, before an assemblage of relatives and a few friends.

Following the ceremony the bride and groom and close relatives were guests at a wedding dinner at the home of the groom's mother. Smylax, pink roses and tall white tapers formed the table decorations.

Sunday the happy young couple left for Lansing where they will be at home at 1008 W. Genesee Avenue. Both Mr. and Mrs. Granger are graduates of Grayling High School and the former this year graduated from Michigan State College. They are among Grayling's popular young people and have hosts of friends who extend congratulations and best wishes.

This year the call to membership in the American Red Cross is more than ever an appeal to patriotism. The Nation is fortunate indeed to have at its command this humanitarian agency with its fifty years experience in ministering to human needs. Through half a century the Red Cross has developed marvelous efficiency in relieving distress. Its nursing reserve, disaster personnel and health services save countless lives, prevent accidents and stem the course of disease. The Fiftieth Anniversary Roll Call occurs November 11th to 26th and we urge our fellow citizens to accord it their hearty support.

While no general canvass will be made this year, memberships can be secured at Mac & Gidley's or Central Drug Store.

HEALTH DEPT. OCTOBER NEWS LETTER

During the month of October our work was carried on about as usual. We are still endeavoring to reach as many outlying schools as possible before winter sets in.

The District as a whole has been comparatively free from communicable diseases. A few cases of chicken-pox were reported. There were two new cases of infantile paralysis—one each in Roscommon and Missaukee counties. One of these cases is now in Ann Arbor undergoing treatment; the other is making good recovery at home. Two cases of scarlet fever were reported in Missaukee county. In certain schools there have been quite a few cases of skin diseases, necessitating the exclusion of these children from school until the condition is remedied.

During the month we examined 200 pupils in 11 different schools. In addition, 487 injections against diphtheria were given and of these, 142 pupils completed the treatment. One hundred and twelve pupils were vaccinated against smallpox. The children are entitled to have a blue star placed opposite their name on the "School Health Record" chart when they have been immunized against diphtheria or smallpox. Although we plan to have pre-school clinics during the spring and summer for examinations and immunizations, we feel that these children should be immunized at the same time as the school child. Therefore, we have encouraged the parents to bring their younger children to the school for immunizations with the older children. During the month we completed 20 pre-school immunizations against diphtheria and 21 against smallpox.

Among other activities the nurses have been busy seeing that the children are weighed and measured. They have been instructing the use of the "School Health Record" chart and giving talks to the children on health habits. Eight schools in Roscommon and Crawford counties have procured new handwashing closets and first-aid kits. Some of the schools are giving box socials and other forms of entertainment to raise money for school needs. One school is using this money for a hot lunch equipment.

Our Director of Nurses, Miss Edna L. Hamilton came from Detroit to address the Child Health Committees in each county. Through her talks she stimulated the interest and efforts of the different members.

The Kalkaska County committee has established a loan closet, the purpose of which is to loan necessary sick room appliances.

Dr. Bearsch will leave Lake City December 1st to go to Houghton Lake for six weeks. The children are much interested in the condition of their teeth. About 30 patients had their dental work fully completed during the month. One child was willing to get up at three o'clock in the morning in order to get a ride into town to get his dental work attended to; another child set out to walk the thirteen miles to Lake City.

CHRISTMAS GREETING CARDS

You're going to need Christmas cards. Why wait until the rush. We have some beautiful new lines of samples; handsome ones at little cost and exquisite designs at slightly higher prices. No other family in Grayling will have cards like yours for we do not sell duplicates. Phone No. 111 for samples or call and see them. All plainly priced.

No party is a complete success these days unless somebody makes a fool of himself.

Leisure is just a dead weight unless we have a regular job to do at the close of our vacation.

BUSINESS IS GOOD IN THE SCHOOLS

Business is good when there is a steady demand for products which serve genuine and important needs and when that demand is being fairly met. Measured by this standard the business of education has never been so good as in the United States at this moment.

There are more young people in school than ever before. They are in charge of the most alert and best trained teachers that have ever blessed the nation. These teachers are presenting the strongest curriculum so far perfected and are seeking to make it better. They are working in the best buildings that ever housed the nation's millions of young students. They are supported to a remarkable degree by an intelligent and sympathetic public.

These teachers are working at their problems. During the summer of 1931 more than 270,000 of them took special courses to improve their service. Over 700,000 in the State Education associations and 200,000 in the National Education Association are cooperating to improve education. More than 5,000 are life members of their great professional body. Tens of thousands of school faculties are holding regular meetings to study their problems.

These facts are of the utmost significance for men and women in every other line of business. They mean that better times lie ahead. The first wealth is human wealth. Upon that all other wealth is built. These thirty million students are getting the best education ever given to the masses of the people. They are learning to live on a higher plane of life. They are building up health and vitality. They are being taught to value a fine home life and to plan for it. They are learning how to learn and to keep on learning as a life-long enterprise. They are learning citizenship by practicing it in the schools. They are being trained in essential vocational skills. The higher uses of leisure are opened up to them in the fine arts and in the recreational and social life of the school. Above all, they are seeking to develop fine character—to quicken ambition, aspiration, courage; to cultivate industry and thrift; to establish all the virtues that underlie the excellence and happiness of life.

These products of the school are the pride of America. They are the basis of all other production and the promise of a quality of consumption such as the world has not yet seen. The business man who is prepared to serve this improved product of the schools will reap a rich reward. Dishonest business is gone, less and less. The saloon is fast disappearing. A hard blow: Poverty can be wiped out. Graft can be abolished. Efficiency can take the place of weakness. Honest, intelligent, courageous industry and business can lift America. They can achieve the only goal worthy of an intelligent system—economic security for all from the cradle to the grave. TODAY business is good in the schools. TOMORROW business will be good in the factories, the shops, the stores. By living up to the motto CHILDREN FIRST, America is laying the foundation for a new revival.

The second regular meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Alexander. Members responded to roll call with "Suggestions for Child Management," after which the usual business session was held. The subject for the evening was "Child Study," and topics as assigned were very well given by the following:

What the parent may expect of the teacher—by Mrs. Daisy Barnett. What the teacher may expect of the parent—by Miss Eva Dorr. The use of leisure within the family group—by Mrs. Eva Joseph.

Miss Margrethe Hemmingsen also gave an interesting report of the District meeting held in Bay City in May. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. LaVere Cushman instead of with Mrs. Barnett.

MRS. J. W. SORENSON PASSED AWAY

Mrs. Amanda Sorenson, wife of James W. Sorenson of the firm of Sorenson Brothers, passed away at her home on Chestnut street on Thursday morning at ten o'clock, following a long illness. Mrs. Sorenson's health had been poor for several years and about a year ago she suffered a paralytic stroke, which left her in a very feeble condition.

Mrs. Sorenson was formerly Amanda Anderson and was born in Palmer, Sweden, July 29, 1883. Her girlhood was spent in her native home and when she was 19 years old she came to America and to Grayling, which has been her home since. While a young woman she was a dressmaker by trade and operated a shop in Grayling for a number of years previous to her marriage. She was united in marriage to James W. Sorenson in August, 1909. Although there were no children in the Sorenson family, on a visit to her native home in Sweden, she brought back Miss Elsie Erickson, a niece then two years old, who was brought up in their home, and the young lady was a fond companion of Mrs. Sorenson. Miss Erickson, who is a graduate nurse has been here since early in the summer, caring for her aunt. Mrs. Sorenson was a devoted member of the Danish-Lutheran church and took an active part in all its activities before her health failed. She was a member of the Danish Ladies-Aid society and had a large circle of friends by whom she was held in the highest esteem.

The funeral services which were largely attended were held Sunday afternoon at the Danish-Lutheran church, Rev. Hans Juhl officiating. There was the regular congregational singing at the church service and also at the grave, the remains being laid to rest in Elmwood cemetery. The beautiful profusion of flowers bore mute testimony of the sympathy of many friends.

Surviving besides the husband, is one sister, Mrs. Adle Jorgenson, Grayling, and a brother, August Anderson, Washington, besides a number of nieces and nephews. Mr. Sorenson and the other remaining members of the family have the sympathy of the community in their sorrow.

Those from out of town in attendance at the funeral included Mrs. Jens Eklund, John H. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Winn, Ellen Mae Rasmussen, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sorenson, Martha Sorenson, Houghton Lake.

OBITUARY

Tuesday noon, Mrs. Esther Caroline Giffen, wife of Robert W. Giffen passed away at their home after being ill since early in the spring. Her death was caused from a growth on her head, for which she recently underwent an operation at University Hospital, Ann Arbor. Following the operation she returned home feeling much improved but a second growth developed about two weeks ago that caused her death.

Mrs. Giffen was 71 years old and was born in Canada. The family came to Grayling about eight years ago, and about a year ago bought the old Fred Ayers home on Chestnut street. Two grandsons, Percy and Grant Giffen resided with Mr. and Mrs. Giffen and they had been cared for since they were babies by their kind grandmother.

Surviving the deceased besides her husband and the two grandsons, are three daughters and two sons, Mrs. Lena Robertson, Lewiston; Mrs. Jenny Smeader, Mrs. Elizabeth Homes, Frank Giffen, Detroit; James at home. Also one brother Charles Williams, Detroit and five other grandchildren. Mr. Giffen and family have the sympathy of many friends in their sorrow.

The funeral is being held this afternoon.

It takes a lot of energy to make up for bad judgment.

BOOK WEEK, NOVEMBER 15-21

Children's Book Week is an annual festival observed widely by schools, libraries, and book shops. The central theme of Book Week this year is to be "Round the World in Books" (international friendship thru children's reading). Almost every country round the globe has made contributions to the bookshelves of American boys and girls in recent years.

Round the world book tours must begin or end with our own country, and a wide and interesting range of titles are available, giving boys and girls the thrilling story of American history. Bookstores and public libraries throughout the country have arranged to hold Round the World Book Fairs during the third week in November and many schools are planning international exhibits.

During Book Week the local Women's club is planning to include the study of children's books on their program.

Book Week will be fittingly observed in every grade in the Grayling schools.

ACHIEVEMENTS IN SAFETY

In spite of the terrible rise in automobile injuries and fatalities, there is a bright side to the accident problem. The organized safety movement—which was 20 years old recently—"points with pride" to such achievements as these:

A steady decrease in accidental deaths to children since 1922, when school safety work was inaugurated on a national scale. During this time accidental adult deaths have increased 38 per cent.

A decrease of at least 30 per cent in fatal industrial accidents in the past 20 years.

A decrease of 28 per cent in the accident rates of 1000 industrial establishments reporting to the National Safety Council.

A decrease of 19 per cent in accidents involving drivers of trucks, buses and taxicabs in four years. During this time private passenger cars involved in accidents have increased 37 per cent.

This is fine fruit and the safety workers are to be congratulated. Their main problem now is to find some means of checking accidents on the highways and in homes—in the latter, 30,000 deaths occur each year. They are working in the face of great difficulties in this—difficulties that can only be removed by individual realization of the fundamentals of accident prevention.

CRIME THEORISTS

Crime is a matter in which the theorists have run rampant—usually at the expense of real crime prevention.

The anti-gun laws are a good example of this. It is pointed out that occasionally someone uses a gun with which to criminally kill or injure someone else. Ergo, legislate against guns.

That is all very well. What is not pointed out is that for each gun used for a criminal purpose, a thousand or ten thousand are used by honest citizens for protection or sport. It is also pointed out that anti-gun laws, from the standpoint of enforcement, have always been something of a joke. The criminal has managed under all circumstances, to easily obtain weapons. He probably even favors such legislation which only disarms the populace he preys upon.

If we are to legislate against guns, we may just as well legislate against knives, axes, automobiles, ropes and such household implements as iodine. All of these have been, and can be, used in the commission of crime. It is true that they have useful and innocent purposes. But so have guns.

FOR SWEET CHARITY

According to the Navy Recruiting Station, Detroit, the Military and Naval Academies will play a football game for charity in the Yankee Stadium, New York, on December 12. In spite of strained athletic relations between the schools, the Military Academy promptly offered to play the Navy in response to an appeal by the President's unemployment committee for charity football games. The Navy, as promptly accepted, and the time and place decided. Col. Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees, donated the use of his ball park for the contest.

For the youthful girl there are fur coats of sports patterns with leather trimmings and warm furry collars. The one pictured is of gray kidskin with a darker gray fur collar. Cuff and belt straps of gray leather give the right sport touch, while a plaid-trimmed hat and scarf set it off in a colorful manner.

Local Happenings

Gov. Wilbur N. Brucker has issued invitations to members of County Road commissions to be among the representatives of the State to attend the 20th annual convention and road show of the American Road Builders association to be held in Detroit January 12th to 15th. Approximately 30,000 delegates will be in attendance, says Governor Brucker, and every state in the union and many foreign countries will be represented.

The marriage of Miss Laura Knibbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Knibbs of Grayling, to Fritz Bertl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bertl of Roscommon, took place at the Methodist parsonage at Grayling Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The service was read by Rev. H. J. Salmon, pastor of the Michelson Memorial church. The attendants were Miss Bernice Gelnick, Miss Mary Bertl, Ernest Bertl of Roscommon and Kenneth White of Alpena. The couple will make their home at Roscommon.

A former old resident of Grayling, Mrs. Alice L. Hoyt, 72 years old, passed away at her home in Mt. Morris, on Oct. 30 of a complication of diseases after an illness of six weeks. She was born in Vienna, twp., Genesee Co., Oct. 12, 1859, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Craven, and moved to Mt. Morris 26 years ago from Grayling. In 1883, she was married to P. M. Hoyt. Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. L. G. Riley of Petoskey; two sons, Ted P. and Clifford J. of Mt. Morris; two sisters, Mrs. Libby Bolen of Flint and Mrs. Nellie Mason of Mt. Morris; one brother, Charles Craven of Frederic, Mich.; 14 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Several members of the American Legion Auxiliary were guests of the Roscommon unit at a joint installation Tuesday evening. Besides nine members from Grayling, there were four members of the Mio unit present, and with the Roscommon ladies, made a fine gathering. Mrs. Alfred Hanson acted as installing officer for Roscommon and Mrs. John Green for Grayling. After the installation ceremonies, a social evening was spent, followed by a pot luck lunch. Those from Grayling besides Mrs. Hanson included Mrs. Adolph Peterson, Mrs. L. J. Martin, Mrs. Earl Whipple, Mrs. Wilfred Laurant, Mrs. Neil Matthews, Mrs. Otto Felling, Mrs. Albert Knibbs, Mrs. Paul Feldhauser.

Daphne Savage, of Norfolk, Va., who has been awarded the newly created Lou Henry Hoover scholarship in gardening, named in honor of Mrs. Herbert Hoover. It is a Girl Scout scholarship and the award was approved by the Woman's National Farm and Garden association. The scholarship is valued at $500.

THE SIMPLE LIFE

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
 Emeritus Dean of Men,
 University of Illinois.

Doc was polishing up my dental machinery and putting in new parts and getting everything in good shape and proper working order. Doc is a philosopher, and while he has my mouth pried open so that he may more easily and efficiently do his work, he regales me with his opinions of life in general. I am, of course, in no position to reply.

He has just bought a new motor car, high powered, easy riding, simple to operate, and he is advising me to do the same thing. The price is moderate, he assures me, which naturally makes the prospect more alluring. He tells me about a wonderful trip he had last summer, and then he drifts to the complicated character of life as we live it now in civilized North America. Everything moves fast, everyone is trying to outdo his neighbor. We wear ourselves out in trying to get at the head of the procession which, no matter how rapidly we go, always seems to keep ahead of us. We are never at home, never quiet, never satisfied. Life seems to grow more involved and more complex every year.

It was not always so. When we were young we had time to play at home, time to sit and talk with our friends without likelihood of interruption, time to read, and, if we were so disposed, time to meditate.

Doc thinks he would really enjoy the simple life. He has been reading recently the story of how people live in some of the South Sea Islands. This climate is equable, there is no frost in winter and in summer the waters of the Pacific washing the shores of the islands keep them refreshingly cool and pleasant.

It is a wonderfully simple life and as one views it in prospect it seems to bring complete relief from the complexities with which we are harassed in this Twentieth century.

I'm wondering if we would like it after all. Perpetual sunshine might grow monotonous. We would probably lose our appetite for breadfruit. We'd long for new clothes and motor cars and movies and electric lights, and all those things. Maybe life might be too simple.

Wise Spending

Careful and wise spending will help solve our economic problems and will be of untold benefit to the farmer. Our troubles are not caused by the spending of money, but because it was spent unwisely.

Carlyle once said that people could only be taken in by quacks when they had a certain element of quackery in their own souls.

Considering that history always repeats itself, it's a wonder some of us don't learn faster.

Democrats Win Control of the Lower House in Next Congress—Roosevelt Defeats Smith in "Popularity Contest."

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

THERE is no longer any doubt as to which party will be in control of the house in the next congress. In Tuesday's elections the Democrats captured that somewhat dubious honor, and in consequence will elect the speaker.

John N. Garner of Texas being their certain choice for the position. Able, experienced and popular, he will be a capable successor to the late Nick Longworth.

Five vacancies in the house were filled Tuesday, and the Republican upset came in the Eighth district of Michigan. There Michael J. Hart, Democrat, and advocate of prohibition modification, defeated F. O. Milder, Republican. The Eighth is the district that sent Joseph W. Ford to congress for many years, and so Democrat had won there since 1908. In Ohio J. B. Hollister, Republican, and Martin Sweeney, Democrat, were elected; Joseph Delaney, Democrat, was winner in New York's Seventh district, and Edward L. Stokes, Republican, was elected to succeed the late Representative G. S. Graham in the Second Pennsylvania district. These results made no change in the party line-up.

The house make-up now is: Democrats, 217; Republicans, 215; Farmer-Labor, 1. There are still two vacancies to be filled. One is in the Fifth New Jersey district, and it is likely the Republicans will win there, but they will still have one vote less than the Democrats. The other vacancy, in New Hampshire, will not be filled until January 6, too late to affect the election of the speaker.

Democrats also scored heavily in New Jersey, where their candidate, A. Harry Moore, won the governorship over William Baird, Jr., after a bitterly fought battle into which both of them injected national politics, attacking, respectively, against and for the policies of the Hoover administration. Moore's victory amounted almost to a landslide, and his admirers, all very wet, at once put him forward as a desirable candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination.

Without opposition, Martin Sennett Conner, who is only forty years old, and a Democrat, was elected governor of Mississippi.

On the basis of incomplete returns it appeared that Judge Ruby Laffoon, Democrat, had won the governorship of Kentucky, defeating Mayor William B. Harrison of Louisville, Republican, by perhaps 60,000 votes.

NEW YORK state had an election of its own that was interesting for two reasons: First, it gave the voters an opportunity, apparently, to express their preference as between Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Al. G. Smith, for a constitutional amendment, and it was warmly advocated by Roosevelt and was warmly condemned by Smith. The amendment was carried by a two to one vote; Tammany and the Republicans being in favor of it. This, according to political observers, put the governor definitely at the head of the Democratic party and relegated Smith to second place.

The New Yorkers also elected an assembly, and though Tammany swept New York city despite the charges of political corruption, the Republicans retain control of the legislature by ten votes.

MAYOR CERMAK of Chicago, with several other leaders of the Illinois Democracy paid a visit to New York that was held to be of considerable political significance. He was looking over the steps being taken by the Democratic possibilities for the Presidency in that region. Roosevelt, Smith and Ritchie of Maryland, and he let the Democrats there know very plainly that the party in Chicago and Illinois would insist on a candidate who is Senator Lewis, winning out, and not "pussy-footing. In reply to a question, he said:

"If Governor Roosevelt was wet enough for Alfred B. Smith and wet enough for New York to be elected governor, he is wet enough for us."

In addition to Ritchie and Smith, he said, former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri would qualify in that respect.

Mr. Cermak, however, declared positively that the Illinois delegation to the convention would give its vote for the nomination of Senator James Hamilton Lewis, and asserted Lewis should be considered not only a "favorite son" but a strong figure in the party, who is entitled to the nomination. When Senator Lewis was told of all this in Chicago, he gave out a statement to which, though he is a decided wet, he said the economic issue of jobs and food comes before the liquor question. "I appreciate the constantly expressed endorsement of me by Mayor Cermak," said Senator Lewis, "but as to the political platform being only wet or dry, I have to say I am sure the mayor and myself recognize that in the present hour the American public is more concerned to know where many of its people will get something to eat before they consider what they shall have to drink."

"Also, it is more urgent at once to consider places of shelter for homeless families this winter than for places to enjoy a beverage. The pre-ludition question is one to go along with food, clothing, and homes for the needy millions, and with aiding the returning prosperity that is now on the way to our nation. These are the concerns altogether of the national democracy.

Which statement increases the esteem in which Senator Lewis is held by those who recognize his sound judgment in national matters.

JAPAN has warned Russia a second time about troop concentrations on the Manchurian frontier; China has informed the League of Nations that Japan is steadily extending its hold on Manchuria and shows no sign of complying with the league's demand for evacuation before November 15; and the Japanese forces continue their advance toward the zone of Russian influence, fighting battles with Chinese bandits and now and then bombarding a Chinese town. The League of Nations is worried, and no wonder.

The Moscow newspaper Izvestia charges that Japanese militarists "intended the table" of possible Soviet interference in Manchuria in order to cover plans for an extension of their own occupation northward. The militarists hoped, the newspaper says, to "weaken the resistance of other imperialistic powers by the prospect of a conflict with the Soviet Union, a conflict much desired in imperialist circles in Europe."

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY ADAMS finally took a hand in the controversy between President Hoover and the Navy League. Indeed, he took two hands, and there are those who declare he also put his foot in it. First Mr. Adams issued a statement in which he took a fall out of the fact that the Navy League had been asserting that the United States was spending too much on its navy—much more than Great Britain. With figures W. H. Gardiner, and facts he demonstrated the fallacy of this, and he rebuked those who had said it hastily. Alas! said the observers in Washington, that shows there is a split between the President and the secretary. Then Mr. Adams had several talks with the White House and gave forth another statement, very brief, expressing his "unqualified disapproval" of the personal attack on the commander-in-chief of the navy by President William Howard Taft.

He followed up this by telling the correspondents that he had no intention of resigning from the cabinet.

The White House announced that the committee to inquire into the accuracy of Mr. Gardiner's assertions would consist of Admiral Hugh Rodman, retired; John F. Ryan, retired, assistant secretary of the navy; Undersecretary of State William F. Castle and Elliot Wadsworth, former assistant secretary of the treasury. Messrs. Hammond, Wadsworth and Jahncke are members of the Navy League and these three as well as Mr. Castle are all close friends of the President. Mr. Hoover said the committee's investigations must be limited to "assertions of fact" by Mr. Gardiner.

DELEGATES from the Chicago Board of Trade called on President Hoover and told him the business committee of the board had devised means to check bear raids in the grain markets. Silas Strawn, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, who accompanied the group, said the President appeared satisfied with the steps being taken.

The President asked us to come down and talk over this matter with him. Strawn said, "We have no quarrel with the President about it. Mr. Hoover did not criticize short selling. That sometimes is necessary and has to be. What he did criticize was bear raiding, and we assured him we had a machine that would turn over to combat this when necessary."

Recently wheat prices have been moving upward more gratifyingly, and the Chicagoans said everyone in the market was optimistic and glad to see the farmers benefiting. Arthur W. Cutten, the veteran and sometimes spectacular trader in grain, was reported to have made huge sums in the present bull movement.

GERMANY is preparing for negotiations with France to obtain a reduction of reparations, and as a powerful argument will cite her debts abroad. The Reichsbank and a bankers' committee has completed an investigation of these foreign debts and concludes that every cent that Germany makes through exports will be needed for at least ten years to pay interest on the amortized short and long term loans granted Germany by foreign countries.

Germany points out that this year, which is far above the average, she has earned a surplus of $600,000,000 of foreign currency through sales of goods abroad. This sum was swallowed entirely by interest due on money borrowed abroad, including interest and amortization on Dawes plan loans and Young plan loans.

HAILE SELASSIE I, king of kings of Ethiopia, conquering lion of the tribe of Judah, the elect of God and the light of the world—otherwise emperor of Abyssinia—celebrated the first anniversary of his coronation with a remarkable ceremony at Addis Ababa, his capital city. After attending religious services in the cathedral he rode through the streets in a magnificent coach that once belonged to former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany to the open fields, where a feast of raw meats was served to ten thousand warriors. His majesty then opened the two chambers of the legislative body created under the constitution which he proclaimed last July; and in the evening there was a display of American fireworks.

FOR several years a score of chemists have been working on a process of making synthetic rubber out of acetylene and salt water, and the other day the American Chemical society in session in Akron was told the experiments were successful. It was stated that the substance is not a substitute for natural rubber but a supplement, and also that it may find uses in lines where real rubber is not suitable. Certain important differences from natural rubber are claimed. One is more resistance to swelling action of gasoline, kerosene, and other solvents. It is also more resistant to oxygen, ozone and some other chemical compounds which attack rubber. (© 1931, Western Newspaper Union.)

WHAT IS A "CLOUDBURST"?

Rain falls during rainfall, but clouds do not burst when there is a "cloudburst." United States Weather Bureau experts say that sometimes strong upward currents of air hold raindrops up from underneath and prevent them from promptly reaching the ground. Then the drops gather in much larger quantities than they usually do. When the upward air currents lessen, or so much water accumulates that the air can no longer support it, there occurs the deluge of rain that we call a cloudburst.

Interesting Events In Grayling 23 Years Ago

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES
OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO.

Thursday, Nov. 12, 1908.

Today is the 31st anniversary of the birth of the Avalanche and we believe we have a right to be proud of the growth and condition of the paper. It has grown from a five column quarto to a seven column folio, its circulation increased over sixfold and the office equipment multiplied over six times in value. Our job department is equal to any similar office in the state, and our advertising patronage is quite satisfactory, proving the endorsement of our business citizens. With our thanks for favors past we promise to continue, as we deem best, to work for the advancement of the city and county, and to publish a paper that will be welcome to every home.

Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Underhill of Judges were in town Monday, en route to Detroit, for a brief business trip.

James W. Sorenson returned Monday from a business trip to Chicago, to purchase an immense stock of Christmas presents.

At the election last week, Oscoda, Roscommon, Ogemaw, Crawford, Leeper, Gratiot, and Eaton counties each elected one lone Democrat and all but one was for sheriff.

Henry Bates lost another horse yesterday morning from his livery stable. It was only sick two hours. Lewis & Co. have adorned their drug store with a National Cigar case which is the first ever brought to this village.

John Benson and Ambrose McLean started for the woods in quest of venison, yesterday morning. They will camp in P. Aebi's cottage on Portage Lake.

The High School football team is to meet Boyne City here Friday at 3 p. m. Boyne City is rated quite high and their defeat will put a large feather in Grayling High's hat.

Mrs. George Langevin started for Asheville, N. C. Monday, where she will spend the winter. Her many friends here earnestly hope that her health may be fully restored this winter that she will hereafter be able safely to withstand the rigors of our winters. All wish her a safe and pleasant journey.

The harnessing of the AuSable river to furnish Saginaw with electric power is rapidly being made possible.

AS A FOREIGNER SEES IT

The editor of a London newspaper has been spending six months in the United States visiting all sections of the country and in a parting statement he declares he sees on the surface of life "few signs in any American city of the severe distress which I was assured by nearly everyone would create in the coming winter one of the gravest social problems in American history." The standard of living is still very much higher in America than anywhere else in the world, this widely traveled observer declares, and Americans of all classes "live with an air of opulence that cannot be matched in any European country." And then he adds:

"They are more finely clothed. They eat better and more varied food. They live in more material comfort. The working classes have a wider margin of personal pleasures. They enjoy luxuries which no other proletariat could possibly afford.

"Hundreds of thousands of working men travel to the factories and mills every morning in their own motor cars. The motor is to an American working man what a bicycle or a 2-penny tram car ride is to an English artisan."

"Until he has crossed the Atlantic Ocean the average American citizen cannot clearly perceive the chasm that separates his own conception of social comfort from that of the average European."

Considering that history always repeats itself, it's a wonder some of us don't learn faster.

Carlyle once said that people could only be taken in by quacks when they had a certain element of quackery in their own souls.

NEW WAY OF TRANSPORTING FISH

Success of two experimental units for the transportation of fish from hatcheries and rearing ponds to lakes and streams has caused the Fish Division of the Department of Conservation to consider seriously the possibility of adding more such units next spring.

The transportation units, designed by A. E. Cook, superintendent of hatcheries, are believed to be the only tanks of their kind in use today, and it is expected that with improvements to be made in the new units, such tanks will be used exclusively in the future by the state for moving all kinds of fish.

Five tanks were mounted on each truck. These tanks have a combined capacity of approximately 600 gallons of water that is continuously circulated by a gasoline motored centrifugal pump which is equipped with an automatic priming device. The water is kept at a constant level by means of a stand pipe. The tanks are heavily insulated to insure a uniform temperature as possible.

In extremely hot weather when icing becomes necessary, the ice is placed within the stand pipe so that it does not come in direct contact with the fish. It is possible to pump water directly from the lakes and streams to the tanks, giving the fish the same water as that in which they are to be planted.

Among the advantages cited by the Fish Division of using the new tanks are: the constant aeration of the water which decreases the mortality of the fish and at the same time increases their vigor; cheaper transportation; and reduction of the number of men needed to move and plant fish.

Recently a load of fingerling perch was moved from Traverse City to Comstock Park without loss of fish. The experimental tanks are large enough to carry in the neighborhood of 10,000 five-inch trout as compared to 75 to 100 trout of this size that may be carried in the ten gallon cans formerly used. The loading and unloading of the large tanks means a saving of considerable labor.

The movement of fish from the hatcheries and rearing ponds has always been a big problem with the propagation and planting of fish. The new transportation units make it possible to move the fish rapidly and in almost the same living conditions they encounter in the rearing ponds and the streams in which they are planted.

PROGRESS IN OIL CONSERVATION

After many years of debate and experiment, the oil conservation movement seems to be making real progress at last.

Now, according to a report by the Federal Oil Conservation Board, 19 states have laws relating to the production of crude oil and natural gas. Fifteen of these control drilling in some manner, either through regulating spacing of wells or through requiring permits to drill.

All of them have laws governing damage to productive strata, and waste utilization is covered in the statutes of 14 states.

Nine states seek, through law, to prevent production in excess of market demand, and eleven regulate production by provisions dealing with allowable percentages of open flow, gauging, etc.

Nine states have laws governing production from a common source through proration or proportional production. Three have laws dealing with unitization, or cooperative development.

Progress of this kind should prove greatly encouraging to the public which, whether it knows it or not, is the principal gainer when invaluable natural resources are protected, and the principal loser when they are wasted.

Phosphorescence

Certain bodies possess the quality of becoming self-luminous after exposure to heat or light. This is known as phosphorescence. The color of the light depends upon the kind of light to which the article is exposed and may vary with the nature of the substance. Calcite gives off an orange light when exposed to the sun's rays, while the glow of argonite is green. (© 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

Chief Justice Hughes In Tribute to Red Cross

One of the finest tributes ever paid the American Red Cross and its membership was that by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, of the United States Supreme Court, on the occasion of the fiftieth birthday anniversary of the organization on May 21 of this year. Mr. Hughes said:

"The American Red Cross represents the united voluntary effort of the American people to the ministry of mercy. It is the finest and most effective expression of the American heart. It knows no party, no sect, no race, no color, no creed, no political philosophy."

"However we may differ in all things else, in the activities of the Red Cross we are a united people. None of our boasted industrial enterprises surpasses it in efficiency. It moves with the precision and discipline of an army to achieve the noblest of human aims."

"The American Red Cross is not only first in war but first in peace. The American people rely upon its ministrations in every great catastrophe. It has given its aid in over one thousand disasters. When, as we hope, war will be no more, still the Red Cross, in the countless activities of relief and rehabilitation, will continue to function as the organized compassion of our country."

Reduce the Acid

SICK stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are overstimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour. Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia; one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. For 50 years the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours. Get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia; the kind physicians have prescribed for 50 years.

WATCH BODY POSTURE TO
LEAGUE WARNS

The common habit among Grayling motorists of slumping in their seats while driving is an open invitation to automobile accidents, the Automobile Safety League warned today.

The League based its statement on the findings of Dr. Dudley B. Reed, director of the health service of the University of Chicago, and other authorities who point out that sitting in an improper position induces fatigue, thereby encouraging accidents, places the body where quick response cannot easily be made in emergencies, sometimes limits the vision and is often a contributing cause to nervous and other troubles arising from undue strain, cramped lungs and other organs.

Here are the essentials of proper riding or driving position as suggested by the League from reports by Dr. Reed.

Sit with the back well against the back of the seat and with the weight resting mainly on the seat bones. One should recline slightly more than ninety degrees and there should be support for the back below the shoulder blades and at the top of the hips. The feet should reach the floor and the pedals without stretching or straining under the knee. In this correct body position, quick response in emergencies can be given with less effort, the spine is placed where it can serve most efficiently as nature's own shock absorber for the body, there is less fatigue and the lungs and other organs are given the greatest freedom to function in a natural manner.

OILED ROADS IMPORTANT

Brooke Howell, Highway Commissioner of South Dakota, recently said that oil-surfaced roads are a big item in the scheme of things in his state.

He stated that experiments have indicated that seven to eight miles of oiled roads can be built for the cost of one mile of high-type paving—and that the oil road is practically as good.

This has proven true in many states in all sections of the country, with varying climate and soil conditions. The oil road has come to be regarded as a tremendously important factor in any sound highway program. To build high-type highways in all sections needing weather-proof roads, would plunge a state up to its neck in debt—low-cost roads are the solution.

Farming areas, in particular, are the beneficiaries of the bituminous road. Such roads, suitable for all but the heaviest traffic, and weather-proof and full width, can be built at a very low cost per mile.

White Elephants

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois

It is or was a Siamese custom, I am told, when one native of Siam did a service of any importance to another native of wealth, for the second man to present the first with a white elephant. Now a white elephant is a very sacred possession and a very expensive one. Its life must be protected with the greatest care; it must be fed and kept in condition, and an elephant's appetite, I am told is something fierce. Our neighbor once kept a huge dog—Great Dane, I believe—which came near eating the family out of house and home until Providence in the form of a swiftly moving motor car removed it from the incidents connected with this world.

A poor man could not afford to keep a white elephant; he would find it difficult to give one away, even if it were not a serious reflection and possibly an insult upon the original giver to do so. To kill it would subject the assassin himself to the severest penalty. "It is no joke, then, in Siam," to be presented with a white elephant.

Harold and Sarah are very modest young people in very moderate circumstances in life. Recently, they were married and, as is not an infrequent custom, they invited a considerable number of people to the ceremony, some of whom are not in as modest circumstances as are Harold and Sarah. They received, as is also customary, a great assortment of presents.

They will have no use for most of the stuff for years to come and possibly never possess Harold prospered tremendously. If they could sell it back to the merchants from whom it was bought, even at a considerable reduction in price, it would help them out tremendously, but of course that is not to be thought of, for it would indicate a lack of appreciation of the gifts. So they pack them carefully and store them away in the bank or the basement, and look forward to the day when possibly they will be rich enough and have an establishment large enough to afford to keep a few white elephants in comfort without impoverishing themselves.

HIS LAST PUBLIC SERVICE

In paying a last tribute to the late Thomas A. Edison, nothing more impressive can be said than to repeat what was probably his last public statement, flashed by radio from his laboratory in Fort Myers, Florida, to the National Electric Light Association last summer, at Atlantic City. His words which follow show his interest in humanity which he had served so long and faithfully. In these difficult times they should be engraved on the consciousness of every American citizen.

"My message to you is to be courageous. I have lived a long time. I have seen history repeat itself again and again. I have seen many depressions in business. Always America has come out strong and more prosperous. Be as brave as your fathers were before you. Have faith—go forward."

Advice is given more freely than it is received.

WOMEN: watch your BOWELS

What should women do to keep their bowels moving freely? A doctor should know the answer. That is why pure Syrup Pepsin is so good for women. It is the prescription of an old family doctor who has treated thousands of women patients, and who made a special study of bowel trouble.

It is fine for children, too. They love its taste. Let them have it every time their tongues are coated or their skin is sallow. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients. When you're a sick headache, can't eat, are bilious or sluggish; and at the times when you are most apt to be constipated, take a little of this famous prescription (all drug stores keep it ready in big bottles), and you'll know why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the favorite laxative of over a million women!

SEND IN INFORMATION IF YOU SHOOT TAGGED DEER

One hundred and twenty-five tagged deer and bucks are now living in the woods of the northern part of the lower peninsula and in the upper peninsula. These deer are tagged in the right ear with an aluminum tag on which is stamped a serial number and instructions reading: "Dept. of Conservation, Lansing." The Department of Conservation figures that many of these tagged bucks will be shot during the approaching deer hunting season.

If hunters shooting tagged deer will send the number of the metal tag together with information as to the date the deer was shot and the locality in which it was shot, considerable information as to the movements of the deer will be learned.

Last year about 25 deer were tagged at the Halbert Deer Yard and in the Crawford Game Refuge. A hundred of the animals trapped and moved from the Turtle Lake region near Alpena were all tagged by the Department of Conservation, and released at the Lunden Game Refuge, Alpena State Forest and the Isoco Game Refuge at Oscoda. About half of the total number of deer tagged were bucks.

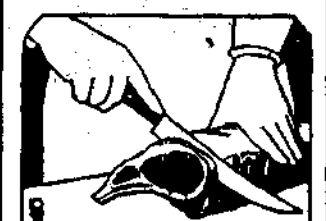

It is hoped that with hunters sending in the tag numbers of deer they have killed, together with information about where they shot the animal, the Department, by comparing its records of where the deer was tagged and when, will be able to get some idea of how far deer move during the course of a year.

During the coming winter deer traps will again be operated and all deer caught will be tagged so that further and more accurate information will be obtained.

All those sending in information on tagged deer will be told when and where the deer were tagged.

SCHOOL NOTES

High School-Alumni Battle Approaches

With the Alumni-High School annual battle only a week and a half away we find both camps working hard. With the material they both have to work with we should see an exciting battle on Thanksgiving Eve.

It will be interesting to watch how Coach Cushman will outline his plan of battle against his former proteges. His squads are working hard daily and showing plenty of promise.

Coach Cushman says that it is an impossibility to rime the starting lineup now. He has plenty of material with 3 guards, 2 centers, and 4 forwards, and several more to choose from.

It is expected in the Camp of the Green and White that the Alumni will use the same offense that the Lumberjacks used, the "quick break." If this is true the High School team must be more or less conservative in offense tactics.

Confidence seems to be the prevailing feeling of the Alumni as to the outcome of the annual battle with the H. S. On the other hand to show that they consider the outcome of the game an uncertainty, they have gone outside of the Alumni ranks to obtain the coaching services of "Spikes" McNeven. As usual they should have a great team. But to name the Alumni as a probable winner at this early date, would have to come from the most optimistic Alumni.

The Freshmen girls' basketball team played against the Sophomore girls Wednesday night.

The pencils we ordered have arrived and are now on sale in the supply room. If you want a good pencil buy one from us.

The customary class party of the Seniors was held last Friday night. Everyone had a good time and we all know everyone enjoyed the beautiful lunch which closed the program.

The Shorthand class composed of seniors and juniors is advancing rapidly, and we wish to announce here that we hope to gain as a whole class, the highest record in speed and accuracy Grayling High has ever produced.

The Senior girls' basketball team played Monday night at the Junior girls failed to make their appearance. The English Literature class have a theme to write for this six weeks. And we girls are waiting to see what kind of papers the boys will hand in, as the subject is, "What feminine character, taken from Shakespeare's works would make the best modern wife?"

Junior-Senior Magazine Contest Closes.

Last Friday was the last day of the magazine selling contest between the Juniors and Seniors. The total number of subscriptions sold was twenty-eight, the seniors selling 12 and the Juniors 16. Elaine Reagan, a Junior, and Forrest Annis, a Senior sold the most subscriptions.

The Juniors, having a larger class than the seniors, were supposed to sell two and a half times as many subscriptions as their opponents or give the victors a big pow-wow. The date for the party has not been decided upon.

The plans for the pow-wow were given to the Grand Sachem by Mr. Edwards, the representative of the Curtis Publishing Co. These plans have been examined and the party is sure to be a success if the plans are carried out.

Grayling At Night.

As I look out of my window I see a large tree which is bare. I know that it is cold out and there soon will be snow. The bare branches make a peaceful sound on the roof. As I look farther I can see the Ausable river which shines like a crystal in the moonlight. It looks like a large piece of glass that curves in and out among the trees. It looks so lovely. I look farther. There is an altogether different view. I see many electric lights. Above them all are the Rialto Theater lights shining brighter than the rest. The cars are racing up and down main street. Farther on I can see where the sky and the ground meet. All the stars are shining so brightly in the dark, dark, sky. It makes me feel contented as I settle down for a good night's sleep and get ready to start a new day.

The Third Grade children have been making calendars so that they can keep track of the number of glasses of water they drink each day. We also learned how to make paper cups.

Grant Giffen is absent from school this week because of the death of his grandmother.

We are studying the One Hundred Spelling Demons. Each Monday we write the words and anyone who is able to write them perfectly is excused at 3:00 on Monday. Those having a perfect paper this week were Audrey Brado, Emil Tahvonen and Jack Sparkes.

We have some new Health Readers. They are very interesting. The name of the book is the "Travels of a Rolled Out."

In Penmanship class we are learning to write with ink. We find it very different than writing with pencils but we like it very much.

The boys let the girls have their own way now when they play ball since Emma swung the bat and raised such a bump on Clyde's head.

THE ROAD TO BETTER HEALTH

AUTOMOBILE EXHAUST GAS POISONING

(By Dr. William J. Scholes)

The danger of working on the car in a closed garage when the motor is running should be remembered at this time of year when the weather is likely to be cold and one is tempted to close the doors. The small one or two car garage is particularly dangerous, the relatively small air space permitting the rapid accumulation of a dangerous concentration of carbon-monoxide.

Carbon-monoxide poisoning caused by the inhalation of automobile exhaust gases seems to be increasing in frequency. It is estimated that each year there are several hundred deaths from this cause. Whether or not the health is affected by frequent exposure to this gas is a question that has not been definitely settled.

May Be Unaware Of It.

The physical properties of carbon-monoxide are such that one may be unaware that he is inhaling it. It is colorless, odorless, and tasteless. The occurrence of certain symptoms may be the first indication that the gas is being inhaled and that poisoning is taking place. Headache, dizziness, nausea, muscular weakness and twitching of the muscles are some of the symptoms. In those cases in which people have been found dead in garages, unconsciousness or death may have occurred very rapidly or the victims may have ignored the earlier symptoms.

Fresh Air First Remedy.

While all of these symptoms may arise from other causes, when any of them occur under circumstances in which one may have been exposed to carbon-monoxide gas, no time should be lost in getting to the fresh air. Anyone who has been overcome should be placed in the fresh air and given artificial respiration such as is used in cases of drowning. This should be kept up until the patient breathes normally.

Prevention of carbon-monoxide poisoning consists of plenty of ventilation to carry away the gas. And, in the avoidance of exposure to air known to contain it.

DEPT. OF STATE

STATE NEWS BULLETIN

Another sign of improving business conditions was noted during the past month by the corporation division of the department of state. One of the best means the state has of gauging economic conditions, is through the number of new companies which seek articles of incorporation.

During the month of October, requests were received by the corporation division for 8,000 application blanks. This is taken to mean that many new companies, sensing improvement, are preparing to be ready for prosperous times.

License plates for new automobiles will be placed on sale Saturday, Nov. 14. The regular license sale for plates to replace those now in use, starts Dec. 1, although automobile owners will be able to use 1931 plates until March 1, 1932.

A new series of malt tax stamps is being printed to replace the present issue. The new stamps will differ from present stamps both in color and design. One reason for the new issue is the fact that counterfeiters have been active in the southern part of the state.

The legislative manual is ready for distribution. It is furnished gratis by the department of state to county officials, schools and libraries. The manual can be purchased by private individuals for $1.50.

INDUSTRY SEES HOPEFUL SIGNS, BANKERS TOLD

Leading Automobile Unit Expects to Employ More Men This Winter Than Last

MOTOR SUPPLY IN HANDS OF PUBLIC FALLING OFF

Twelve Million Years Less Transportation in Nation's Car Inventory Than Considered Normal, Manufacturer Tells Financiers

ESTIMATING that transportation in the form of automobiles now in the hands of the American public is twelve million "car-years" below normal, and that this deficit will eventually have to be made up, Richard H. Grant, vice president of the General Motors Corporation, recently told the American Bankers Association convention that employment in his company may be greater this winter than last year.

"Employment during the winter months is a very important thing," Mr. Grant said. "So far as our corporation is concerned, in November, December, January and February we will be employing at least as many and probably more men than we did this past year."

In order to gauge the outlook for next year's market his corporation, he said, attempts to set up sales indices based on intensive scientific studies in addition to observation and common sense.

"We are in the habit of looking upon an automobile not merely as an automobile but as transportation," he said. "We figure each automobile produced as six years of transportation. Then by following up records of production yearly, we get a graph which indicates what ought to be a normal inventory of transportation in the hands of the American people, and whether there are more or less, miles than might be expected. According to our figures, there are about twelve million years less transportation in this inventory at the present time than has been considered normal since 1925."

The Outlook for Business.

"Consequently, if we retain the same purchasing power in this country, it is quite evident that on the first upturn of business there will be a rush to replace that inventory. In developing this graph, it has come out very strongly that every third year is a big automobile year. The biggest automobile year was 1929 when 4,100,000 cars were produced for American consumption. This year the industry will produce somewhere between 1,300,000 and 1,800,000 cars. As 1932 is three years after 1929, if economic conditions were normal we could be sure we would do a tremendous business, because the third year is the time when the bulk of the replacing takes place."

He added that there are factors at work that make it uncertain how big the year will be. Instancing that "money is being hoarded from lack of confidence and this takes away some purchasing power that we would otherwise have, while family budgets are being cut on account of changes in income conditions, which again means that purchasing power for the automobile, like a good many other things, will be knocked down." As a result, he said, it was necessary to measure what statistically would be a big year against a practical consideration of the curtailment of expenditures which is going on and determine how big the year will be under these circumstances.

"From a long haul standpoint, regardless of how many automobiles are sold in 1932, we are scoring up a big business for the future," Mr. Grant said. "There will be fewer automobiles sold in 1931 than will go to the scrap heap. With 12,000,000 cars out of the inventory, nine percent more gasoline was used up to August 1, 1931, than was used in 1930. With fewer automobiles, the people must have been running them faster and longer to consume the additional gasoline. This means that we have some 22,000,000 people working hard to make a fine business for our industry when there is an economic recovery."

No False Optimism.

"I am not attempting to create any false optimism—I am not speaking without a statistical background. Using the best sense we can, we have drawn conclusions from the figures we have, and I am willing to make the statement that as far as the conduct of our business for the first half of 1932 is concerned, we shall see the indices somewhat higher than the actualities of 1931. We are willing to set our advertising budgets and our selling expense on that kind of indices. With economic conditions as they are, and since the obsolescence is so great, and we have sunk so low in this year's sales, we figure that the first half of 1932 must necessarily be better than was the first half of 1931."

Bankers Help.

Seven banks of Kennebec County, Maine, cooperated with the county garage, farm bureau, and local creamery in financing the publication of a booklet, "The Agricultural Situation in Kennebec County," presents in a concise manner the farm resources and practices of the county, with suggestions for improvement.

Head Bumps.

Urology was originated by E. J. Hall early in the Nineteenth century. He believed that men with certain prominences of the skull possessed definite qualities to a marked degree. He classified individuals with regard to their skull formation after studying hundreds of cases of a given group, such as poets, musicians, etc. One authority has said "the whole system is a house of baseless assumptions."

PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

AM. LEGION NOTES

BY A. H. GANSSER

On Nov. 11, 1918, a horrified and seemingly helpless world, looked back on more than two years of human slaughter and unheard of waste and property destruction. In that hour, this particular day and date had no especial significance. In America it was just another day with its glaring news headlines having to do with the outstanding World War events in Europe and Asia, and minor notes on happenings down on the Mexican border, where Uncle Sam had mobilized his regulars and volunteers. War news from Paris, London, Rome and Petrograd was still very helpful about their several victory drives. If the great battles about Verdun, Champagne and on the Somme river front had not "won through the enemy trench lines" in northern France, they had been sure tactical victories. The superiority in numbers, guns and munitions had clearly gone over to the allies. Germany was surely being exhausted in manpower, money, raw materials, food and all the things that went into a modern war on such a terrific scale. At the same time, Russia and Roumania were similarly exhausting war weary Austria, with the help of Italy on the southern front. And the Serbian and allied armies coming from Salonika in Greece against the Bulgarians from helping much in Roumania, and threatening the western flank of Turkey. At the same time, Russian armies were attacking the Turks in the Caucasus, and British-Indian armies were coming against the Turks through Mesopotamia toward Palestine. So ran the World war news on Nov. 11, 1918, from allied sources. They no longer claimed to have won an immediate victory. But they were certain that victory was in sight for 1917. America and the neutral world were of the same opinion in that hour.

Two Years More Of War.

Judged by all the known standards of modern warfare and the immediate history of Europe and Asia for the last one hundred years, superior numbers and resources, together with the control of the waterways of the world by Britain and the allies, were bound to bring early victory. The wonder of it all, after two years and three months of war on a scale never before heard of, was the fighting power of Germany. With sixty-eight million people in an area the size of the state of Texas, completely blockaded by sea, her commerce destroyed, and surrounded by the allies, after exhaustion had long seemed inevitable. The year 1918 had brought failure to the victory drive, of the crown prince by midsummer, and thereafter the allies had pounded away on all four major battle fronts, simultaneously and hard. But now, longer fight for the Russian auto-winter, fighting in the field gradually died away. On that Nov. 11 it seemed as though the allies were sure of an early and complete victory. President Woodrow Wilson had been reelected largely on the promise that "he kept us out of the war." One week after Uncle Sam's election all the war news from Europe and Asia indicated an early peace.

The alarming rumors through Switzerland, Holland and Denmark, about interior collapse of Russia and utter defeat for Roumania, were heavily discounted in Washington and New York. Such news was palpably war propaganda by the hard pressed central powers. It was probably their last peace drive on a unattractive basis. Britain was at last organized on a modern war basis. France was concentrating all her manpower and industry to winning the war. War industries in America would provide Russia, Italy, Roumania, Japan, and what was left of Serbia, with guns and munitions for the 1917 victory drive. These were accepted facts in the neutral world, and they governed themselves accordingly. Little did two million young Americans dream in that hour, that within five months Russia would be in revolution and America taking her place on the side of the allies.

America Drawn Into War Catastrophe.

On Nov. 11, 1918, our regulars and volunteers on Mexican border duty carried out their usual field duty routine. The 150,000 National Guardsmen along the Rio Grande river front were there at great sacrifice of time and money. With Pancho Villa and his revolutionists and border raiders gone deep into the mountains of Mexico before Uncle Sam's display of military power and initiative, there was little active work for these volunteers to do. Home and business was calling to them. They had enjoyed the training so long as it seemed leading to some definite and worth while end to our country. But after five months of Mexican border routine, and with peace in sight in the World war, there seemed nothing worth while detaining them. Already Washington was planning for sending home those who first came down to the Rio Grande. The regular army would keep the Mexican within reasonable border peace. But in those very first days of November, 1918, came American officers as instructors to the Mexican border, fresh from the battle fields of Europe. These military and naval observers had spent the summer with the allied armies in the European theater of war operations. They discounted the victory news from Paris, London, Rome and Petrograd. They had seen for themselves the power of modern infantry hid in trenches, armed with rapid fire machine guns and long range artillery, and supplied with mountains of ammunition. The German prisoners they had seen during 1918 appeared well fed and combative as were those they had seen in September, 1918. On the other hand, they had seen Russian prisoners recaptured by the allies, who were willing to work for either side in the war, but unwilling to longer fight for the Russian auto-winter. Today we know from official source records that these 1918 prisoners were accurately reflected the spirit of their homelands. Russia was done. America was on the way to Armageddon. The devastating World war would continue to Nov. 11, 1918, then two years away, and four million Americans would be in it at the finish.

HUNTERS TO GIVE OPINIONS ON DEER SITUATION

"Do you favor the one buck law? Do you think deer are increasing or decreasing in the locality in which you hunt?"

Deer hunters in Michigan this year will have an opportunity to express their opinions and to report their observations to the Department of Conservation through a report card now being sent to each conservation officer for general distribution among the hunters.

The cards ask the hunters to report where they hunted; the county and the general locality; They ask if the hunter shot a buck and if so how many points did he have and how much did he weigh. The same information is asked for a camp deer. The hunter is asked how many days he hunted and the number of bucks, does and fawns seen. Other questions asked are: "How many years have you hunted in this locality? Do you favor the one buck law? Did you get a bear? Number of bear seen?" Space is given on the card for the hunter to make remarks and comments on the deer situation.

The cards are being sent to all conservation officers and will be distributed by them among the hunters in their vicinity.

At the Straits of Mackinac during the deer season boxes will be placed by the Department to receive the cards. These boxes will be placed on each automobile ferry and on the dock at St. Ignace. Hunters may deposit the cards in the boxes, give them to a conservation officer or mail them to the Departmental offices at Lansing. Information obtained from the cards will be given to the public as soon as the data is compiled.

During the past two years the Department has conducted a deer tally by asking conservation officers to make weekly reports on the deer situation in their localities. It is hoped that with the new tally card system that more representative observations will be obtained as well as obtaining reactions of hunters to the one buck law.
